Unfortunately this does not exist in Mahara yet, although it is an often requested feature.

There have been feature requests for the following items to be logged/tracked:

- how many times a user has logged in
- when they have logged in
- possibly a summary of activities when logged in
- how many times a page has been looked at (This exists in a very rudimentary manner, but does not tell you who has looked at a page, or when.)

There is now a wishlist item located in the official Mahara Launchpad bug tracking/feature request/blueprint site: https://bugs.launchpad.net/mahara/+bug/1014283
